

Step-by-Step Guide to Creating a CPD Cycle in your ePortfolio

How should I record my CPD?

When completing a CPD cycle, you should record your CPD in a structured way following the five-stage CPD cycle, reflecting and recording text appropriate to each stage of your CPD cycle.

What information should I include in each stage of my cycle?

The table below summarises the information you should record in each stage of your cycle.

Cycle Stage	Content
Title	The title cycle should be relevant to the overall content of your cycle.
Self-Appraisal	In the Self-Appraisal stage you should state or explain what it is you have identified as an area you want to develop and how you identified it i.e. was it; Something that came up in your practice? Something that arose from completing self-assessment against the Core Competency Framework? Something you have been aware of or wanted to work on for some time? Here you can also select the Core Competency Framework domain(s) and associated competencies you want to focus on in this cycle.
Develop a Personal Plan	In the planning stage you should outline your plan to address the area you have identified to focus on. This is where you document what actions you intend to take, how and when these actions will happen and what resources or additional help you feel you will require to carry out the actions you have identified.
Action Plan	The Action stage is where you document what actions you took to address the area you identified to work on or develop as a cycle. In this section you record what you actually did and what you did additionally or differently to what you had planned to do.
Document your Learning	The Document Your Learning stage is where you document what you have learned during and as a result of completing this cycle. This is where you record what you have learned from the actions you have taken and what additional knowledge and skills you have gained.
Evaluate Impact on Practice	In this stage of your CPD cycle you reflect on the area you identified for this cycle and evaluate what you have learned about yourself and your practice as a result of the process. Here you should also reflect on the impact your learning will have on you and your future practice. Here you will also select the Core Competency Framework domains and associated competencies you feel you have met for this cycle.

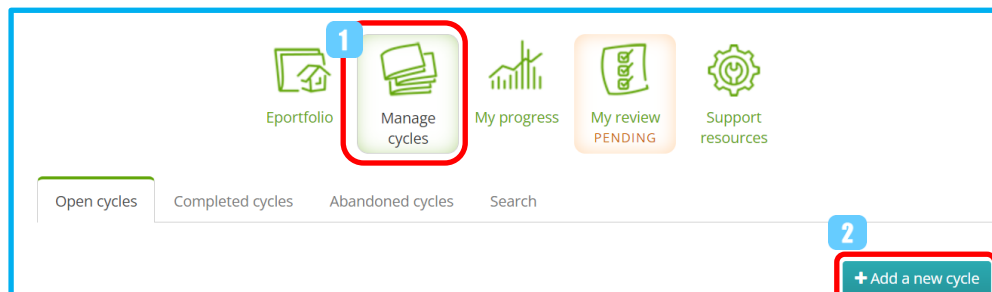

How do I record a CPD Cycle in my ePortfolio?

Step 1: When you are logged into your IIOp profile, click on the ePortfolio button to bring you to your ePortfolio homepage.

Accessing the ePortfolio

Step 2: Add a new cycle: From your ePortfolio homepage click the Manage cycles link 1, then click on the Add a new cycle button 2 from the Open cycles tab.

Adding a new CPD cycle

Step 3: In the Add new cycle window, enter the name of your cycle into the Cycle Title field 1, the date that the learning took place in the Cycle Start Date field 2, select the Stage from the Start at Stage drop-down menu 3 to select the stage that you want the cycle to begin, and then click the Proceed button 4.

NOTE: You can begin a CPD cycle at one of three stages, Self-Appraisal, Develop a Personal Plan or Action. In this example, we're showing a cycle starting at the Self-Appraisal stage so that you can see how all CPD cycle stages should be recorded systematically. We recommend that you begin recording your CPD within the first available stage (in this case, Self-Appraisal) and work down to the last stage, Evaluate Impact on Practice.

Adding a New Cycle

Step 4: View the input-ready cycle: On the cycle's Stages summary screen, you can see the appropriate stages listed for the CPD cycle you created. Each stage can be completed by clicking the stage title, which will open the stage to allow you to enter your CPD details relevant to that stage. To begin, click on the Self-Appraisal title 1.

NOTE: When clicked, the blue information icons 2 describe the kind of information that is expected to be included in each cycle stage.

Step 5: Add CPD information into the Self-Appraisal stage ¹: On the Self-Appraisal input screen, reflect on and record how you identified your LEARNING NEED for this CPD cycle. Then select the most appropriate option(s) that summarises how you identified this need by selecting the relevant checkbox(es) ².

1 I checked the IOP website to find out what support and information is available. I discovered that I could attend a webinar specifically designed to support pharmacists in ePortfolio Review. I will book myself on to a webinar. I will also arrange to meet my colleague Ciara for a coffee - she was called last year and no doubt she will share some good hints and tips with me.

I learnt about the standards for the ePortfolio Review and how to self-assess against them using the Ready Reckoner and the peer review checklist. I know now how to select cycles from my ePortfolio that will allow me to demonstrate that I meet these standards. I also learnt when the key time points were, which will really help me in my preparation. Most importantly I know how to access support from the IOP if I need it.
